LightWedge Announces the Release of the Harry Potter[™] LUMOS Book Light Due in Stores in July 2005

Nantucket, MA - June 13 , 2005 - This July, Harry Potter fans will be talking about more than the much anticipated sixth Harry Potter book. LightWedge, maker of innovative LightWedge® LED book lights, announced at Book Expo America 2005 that the company has signed a licensing agreement with Warner Bros. Consumer Products to produce the Harry Potter LUMOS Book Light. LUMOS will be available in stores nationwide in July 2005. It will bring the LightWedge product that serious readers love to a specially-packaged and branded Harry Potter book light. LightWedge expects that the new Harry Potter LUMOS Book Light will cast a spell on Harry Potter fans of all ages and be popular with parents hoping to spread the magic of nighttime reading to their children.

The LightWedge is a revolutionary book light that has been out in the market for only three years and its popularity with readers everywhere continues to skyrocket. The LightWedge's unique, patented design enables readers to light only the page, with no stray light escaping in a dark room to disturb anyone else. Readers place the large optical-grade, acrylic lens directly on the page they are reading. The LightWedge is side-lit by two bright, white LED bulbs that do not get hot or need to be replaced. Four AAA batteries provide readers with 40 hours of nighttime reading.

The Harry Potter LUMOS Book Light will come with seven interchangeable on/off button covers featuring favorite Harry Potter icons such as the Golden Snitch, Harry's owl Hedwig and Harry's wand. Soft Cases for storing the LUMOS when not in use, embroidered with each of the Hogwarts house crests, will also be available for fans.

LUMOS will be available nationwide at Barnes & Noble bookstores, Border's bookstores, amazon.com and independent bookstores everywhere in July 2005. LightWedge is happy to provide LUMOS evaluation samples and product photography to media outlets upon request.
